The big train divided. It is now running in two sections (practically two full trains) This train load is the largest and most valurble single slupment of agricultural implements or machinery that has ever crossed the continent. The big train will be in Spokane Falls, Cheney, Sprague, Ritzville and Pasco Junction to day, North Yakima, Ellensburgh and Tacoma to morrow, and will arrive in Portland early Thursday morning. Russell & Co during the past winter have shipped upwards of twenty carloads of machinery from their Eastern factory at Massillon, Ohio, to their Portland house to fill orders for this year's delivery, and during the present summer they may even find it necessary to make another full train shipment across the continent

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE IMMIGRATION BOARD The work of canvassing Eas' Portland for sub kriptions to the Oregon immigration board is be ing pushed by the secretary of the board and sev ang pushed by the secretary of the board and several leading, citizens. There should be a tiberal response in this matter. The value of the work done by the board during the past year is well known. Its practical effects are seen in the large increase in population and the bonequent enhancement of real estate values and beautings of overy character. The increase in population on the East Side Suring 1888, is stated by R. L. Polf & Co. to have been not less than "" per cent, while the extra ordinary advance in soil easiete and the activity of the market are well known. WILLIE CLARK'S GOOD LUCK.

Edito Oregonian Twelve years ago I had scarlet fever which left my our discharging and kept it up ever since. My ply sectans could do nothing only to encourage me that I would outgrow it. I become so theroughly disgusted with the offersive discharge that I concluded to try electricity. I put myself under Dr. Darrin's cire two months ago and now find myself acriectly cured. He did just what he said he could do I most heart dy recommend and one suffering with a chronic disease to try his new mode of treat ment, and will glady answer any inquiries by letter or in person at my place of business, 104 Front street or my residence, 77 Lest Park street, Portland.

WILLIE CLARK

Dosfoess Cured by Electricity.

Editor Oregonian Having seen so many cases advertised as cured by Dr Darrin's electric treatment, I ventured to try h m as a list hope. Much to my joy I was cured of five years' deafness in ten minutes. The treatment was almost paniless. I reside on the Vancouver road four miles north of Albina Mr Geo Smith, road supervisor, knows me well.

RAILROAD BUILDING NOW AND HERETOFORE

Those whose memories go back to the period before the war and who had at that time any correct idea of the financial status with regard to railroads, will remember that the money for building roads at that time came from abroad. There was not, to to 1860, money at command to build railroads with All enterprises of that character were incorporated enough money subscribed to was much in the same way as the above that reckless men everywhere started enterprises and reckless bankers in Europe lent their money because they knew they could unload n confiding people there.

The interstate commerce commission holds that it is a violation of the fourth section of the interstate act for a refroad company to make higher rates on one of its branch lines than on another—austances being similar—to a common point. President Harrison may not take the induce of the Cologue Galette to reconsider the memination of Vr. Bottes to be commissioner to the Samoan conference but said advice was not in bad taste while the conduct of lister in announcing in a public pournal his views on the question he was appointed to consider and concerning which be naturally would not be supposed to have prematurely formed an opinion was in the worst taste possible Wr. Bates can hardly be considered a fair judge or conomissioner, and whatever he may have been the certainty lacked—all knowledge or appreciation of diplomady. It as not to the result of our country that its ambiantes should make world wide assess of themselves.

Steamers have been transporting polatoes by the thousand tons to Culiforus and the market is glutted the wherees are leaded down the warehouses are overloaded, and the prize is less than nothing. People in Culifornia are not planting to many polatoes as twind and people in Origon won't plant so many in California they are planting beans instead for beans are in demand at good prices and the supply thinted. Why don't Origon farmers plant beans? All things considered the portio trade is thoroughly ships are ked and gone to pieces in deep water. Interface only focus a build if retail and nothing at all at wholesale, so the pracent man who knows at importive will say to hunself. Now is the time to plant and grow planty of polatoes.

Germany's schemes for colonizing Africa are apparently based on bose and sardd modifies and have no foundation in human charit. Bismarck is acting out the policy England practiced centuries ago. For example, he fosture and uncourages the shive trade, when all the world is trong to suppress it—all the world outside of Africa and trabla that is for the Arabs make their lithing by tivel. Lord Sallabury stands with Germany, to the extent of discorringing any British common on German acts for Germany and Lugland have kindly relations and just now the tory ministry cannot afford to even be on cond terms with the kauser and his chancellor. sees also made in England to buy pall the einchonn bark of the world. For a time the market price of quining was advanced in consequence but soon the price began to fall all over the world—a, result of the larger yield of cinchona bark. As carly as 1870 the Dutch government had made great efforts to encourage and promote the curityation of cinchona bark in Sumatra and the British government had in ide similar efforts in Ceylon. Sunatra in 1878 yielded 173 300 pounds of bark and in 1879 the year in which we repealed the duty the product of Sumatra wis 374 500 pounds with the increase was very rapid. In 1881 the supply from the new sources wis 3 000 000 pounds it was 11 000 000 pounds in 1885.

The consequence of this vestly increased supply of the material out of which quinner is inade has been a great decline in the price.

Within a vear Judge J. Quinn Thornton has 1893 and 10 000 000 pounds in 1885.

The consequence of this yastly increased supply of the material out of which quinne is made has been a great decline in the price of the article all over the world, and the decline in highland has been equal to that in the United States. The repeal of the dry in this country has had no appreciable eff on the market, the decline of price being due to the vastly increased supply.

Rev Phillips Brooks of Boston one of the greatest names in the American pulpit to day recently preached a sormon against the pending probabilion amendment in Massachusetts, in which he argued with great power the doctrine that probabilition was a wrong way to temperance reform The basis of his discourse was the idea that moval character can only be built up by tenching resistance to temptation and erit, and not at all by the vain effort to keep the knowledge of evil from man.

cev. headed by Mr. E. P. Roberts, its president. Also gentiemen from Newberg, Yamshib county, Clarkamas and Marion counties, and from Vancouver, W.T., besides many of the leading fruit producers of the country. The discussion was very interesting and was participated in by experienced men. Two new associations have been started in Lana and Benton count es quite recently. There should be similar societies in every fruit growing country of the whole state, and they should be allied to the state society as closely as possible, at least making reports every quarter. It is only by the most perfect and cordial co-operation that fruit growers can succeed and such co-operation should be perfected as early as possible. It should take the form of correspondence and contributions of essays regarding the fruit growing capacity of every sect on of the state.

The State Hotticultural Society has done all it could to fester an interprise of great importance that is now being worked into shape, but must have stock subscribed for the purpose of giving it legal form and existence. This is a business corrogation to be shape, but must have stock subscribed for the purpose of giving it legal form and existence. This is a business corporation to be known as the "Oregon Fruit Union," which thail be managed in the interest of fruit-growers, for the specific purpose of finding a nurrick for their green and cured fruits. It all the products of our state are marketed in such a way that every producer will compete against every other one the result will be demoralization and low prices: but if such a prices.

The stock of the Oregon Fruit Union is placed at only $5000, barely sufficient to oil the wheels and set the enterprise in motion. To subscribe this stock should not be difficult, for the amount is only one-thirdeth of the capital stock of a California company with a similar object. The members of the biate Horncultural Society do not wish to have to take it all, because they prefer to have producers generally take part in it. Therefore fruit-growers who wish to find sale for their products by a retiable association are asked to subscribe and thus have a financial interest. California has made a success of such a union for green fruits and one for dried fruits, but our state has so much less of both that it is thought best to combine the mess on the Souhd and east of the Cascades. While convassing for the sale of green fruits he can also be looking out for the sale of dried fruits, taking samples with him. A commission butthers will be done on a 5 per cent basis. There will be an agency at Portlani, and a warehouse here, where all the fruits will be recacked in the best shape for shipment, Mr. E. W. Alten has the books and those who wish to subscribe can write to him here. There is no time to lose, and those interested must act promptly to accomplish anything this year.

It is doubtful if the small sum charged as commission wit, pay the expenses of carrying on the business unless fruit growers cooperate to build up the supply. It is for the direct and posture interest of every one to do a and for the satisfaction of all at a distance, they can be pend on it that the heaviest full growers of the Salue Horticultural

CO-OPERATIVE DAIRYING.

Farmers institutes are waking up the people of the Eastern states, so that they come forward with their views and their practical experience at every opnortunity. It is exactly what has been needed and though but in the early stage it can be seen that excellent results will follow. Here is what a farmar and of farming and dairying at a recent Eastern states, so that they come oner said of farming and dairying at a recent New York institute:

New York institute:

"We need to farm on a line to bring up the fertility of our woil. So much of our land is poor that we get unsatisfactory results, and agriculture is depressed. Our present practice of taking off and selling the greater part of our crops year after year, is a fata one. KEEPING UP BOILS. This is a remarkable country for the richness and permanence of it soils. Few other regions can show soil that in two-thirds of a century has turned on 2000 business of wheat to the aere and shill produce larger crops than most new constries do of wheat. But our soil is not all thus enduring and has turned off 2500 bushels of But our soil is hot all thus enduring and even the best has lost comewhat of its strength and power of production since Oregon was settled this vasily important to ustain the soil and prevent its deterioration and to pursue a course or system of farming that and secure this end will save great outlay and loss at a later day. A paper entitled "low to Maintain Fertility" is referred to in the Country Gentleman of save great outlar and loss at a later day. A paper entitled "How to Maintain Fertility" is referred to in the Country Gentleman, of which it says: "He divided the agraculture of the country into two periods, that of rich land and that of poor. Already commercial fertilizers are being introduced as far West as Kansas. Barns have been moved because it was easief than to draw out the manure. Nowadays it is thought cheaper to draw out the manure. One of the saddest facts that confront us is that so many farmers would farm better if they had the money to start with, but all they can get must be used to keep the sheriff from the door. There is more money in an aere of good grain than in skimming over the ground for one-half to two-thirds of a crop. Plow fewer acres and cultivate better. Use more care in saving the minuter from waste, and keep all the stock you can. Staple crops are a bad thing for a country. Cotton, tobacco, rice and indigo were the stables of the South. Last year (feorgia paid $5,000,000 for commercial tertilizers, white in New York only $1,500,000 was expended, and $2,000,000 in Pennsylvania.

000 was expended, and $2,000,000 in Pennsylvania.

"Mr. Woodward aptly termed the average barnyard manure the corpse from which the spirit is gone.' He said he believed in commercial fertilizers, but thought we could make it cheaper by stock feeding. In a trip to England last summer he saw the finest pastures in the world, but said that every cow, sheep and horse was also fed grain every day in the year. Formerly England grew no larger crop than we, but now they are better on account of the ship loads of oil meal, cotton-seel neal and, bran, which they draw from this country. There is no reason why the same thing cannot be done here."

This apring the fruit growers of our state are organizing horticultural societies and these societies generally express a west to become allied to the State Horticultural Society, which meets quarterly in this city on the second Tue-day of January, April, July and October of each year. The April meeting was hidd has week and was well attended by well known fruit growers from all parts of our state. There was a good delegation here from The Dalles Pomological Society, headed by Mr. E. P. Roberts, its president. Also gentlemen from Newberg. Yamshid county, Clarkamas and Marion countries, and from Vaneouver, WTT, besides many of the leading fruit producers of the country. The discussion was very interesting and was participated in by experienced men. Two new associations have been started in January despined to the good feeding for that end as well as to improve ment or milk. prove ment or milk.

REMEDY FOR CODLIN MOTH.

Prof. A. J. Cook, of the Michigan Agricul-tural College, declares that he has a perfect remedy for the codlin moth, and gives it in the American Agriculturist. He uses London purple in preference to Paris green, because the American Agriculturist. He uses London purple in preference to Paris green, because it mixes easily and stays mixed long. He sprays the trees thoroughly just as the bloom falls, not to poison the bees and honey, and to catch the bloom end of the fruit before the worm has gone into it. He considers one spraying stifficient, if thoroughly done, and puts one pound of London purple to 100 gallous of water. If a second spraying is made he uses a pound of London purple to 105 gallous of water. If a second spraying is made he uses a pound of London purple to 105 gallous of water three weeks later. He drives the spray with force so as to dash the leaves aside and hit the fruit, and unless the calyx end is met no good has been done. If berrols are used as tanks they must be thoroughly cleaned or dirt will clog the stream and do barm. Care must be taken to have the water perfectly clean and London purple is preferred because it is every way better and less expensive. It works well and answers perfectly. Here is the whole story in a nutshell. Prof. Cook takes the hypothesis that there is only one brood of the codlin moth. That was what some who were at the last Wednesday meeting advanced, but The Dalles people said they sprayed three and even four times, the last time in August, and should have sprayed once more early in September. It remains to be proved whether the nuch has another brood later in the season, and to test this it will be well to spray some trees several times, and others once, and a few twice. The PEAR ELIGHT.

In the report of the commissioner of agriculture for 1836 there is an article on the pear blight by Prof. Budd, who said:

real ought by 1701. Bund, who said:

"Through the recent investigation of Profs. Burrill and Arthur, the true cause of pear blight has been demonstrated to be due to a bacterium. To Prof. Burrill is due the honor of first having discovered the real nature of this disease, and the experiments made by Prof. A-thur have not only verified those of Prof. Burrill, but have been extended so as to settle the question because

The pear blight prevails in Oregon, and two years ago specimens sent from Yamhill to be inspected show as terrible infection as is easily possible. The California state university orchard was infested by this blight, and it is pronounced by their experts a fungus growth that especially attacked the winter nellis; so much so that it is known as the winter nellis; so much so that it is known as the winter nellis blight in that state. The remedy recommended is a proparation of sulphide of soda, to be sprayed on the trees when warm. This was said to work a cure there, and is used on the tree when bare of leaves or bloom and also after leaving out and blooming, as the pear is forming. If used strong in winter on the bare treat the east the wounds and cracks made by the disease. To cut a diseased tree and then cut a healthy one with the same knife conveys the disease to the healthy tree.

FRENCH CATTLE BALE.

PRENCH CATTLE BALE.

The French government has always kept a herd of fine cattle to insure excellence, but has lately sold off its Shorthorns, and the sale is thus described in the Breeders' Ga-zette.

An event of much more than usual inter-

An eyent of much more than usual interest to Shorthorn cattle-breeders was the recent dispersion sale of the herd maintained by the French government at Corbon. Normandy, about 150 miles to the northeast of Paris; and from the report of this sale furnished the London Live Stock Journal by Mr. John Thornton, It would seem as if values for good Shorthorns are still firmly maintained across the Atlantic. The sale occurred on the first of the present mouth, and included forty-three cows and heiters and seventeen bulls; the average price obtained for the entire fifty-two head being a triffe over $350. Competition was mainly between Fiench oreders and the agents of South Amortean buyers, who still seem to be in the market for good stock of English origin. Mr. Thornton describes the cattle as "generally red with little white, with some good roats." He states that "a general uniformity prevailed in the herd; in some cases a fine, stylish, upstanding character, great hair and soft, mellow handle, Indicating B test strain, could be readily distinguished from the shorter-legged, rounder-barrelled thicker liesh of the Booth blood." These strains were, as a rule, well blended, resulting in animals of much merit, covered with good coats of hair; but a peculiar gustom of the country is said to have somewhat disfigured them. This custom is to clip the hair of the head and ock, and on part of the spine to the tail-head very short. Fifteen of the bulls sold went to South America, although the highest price—$100 france, about 5000 of our money—was paid by a French breeder for a handsome roan call. One pe culiar feature of the rale was the manner in which a particularly attractive cow and caff were sold. It was announced that the dam would be put up first and then the calf, and afterward both offered together in one lot, and if they made more in one lot than separately, they would go to the last bidder. The dam was quickly run up to 1500 francs and the calf to 1400 francs, after which the two were put up together and rint o 3000 franks, or 600 francs advance over the combined separate bids. The nighest price made by a female was 2850 francs, for a rich, deep roun beffer calf. Mr. Thornton remarks that the judgment of buyers seems d remarkably krem. "Small animals," he states, though symmetrical, were not popular; nor ably keen. "Small animals," he states, though symmetrical, were not popular; nor was the system of inbreeding or close consanguisity in favor. Constitution and quality of the animal being much studied and wisely preferred." The sale is regarded as marking a great epoch in the agr culture of France, as indicating that government assistance is no longer necessary in the case of cattle breeding.

POULTRY PROFITS.

At an institute held in New York state recently Mrs. Townsend, a lady farmer who has valuable stock, such as Holstein cattle and Percheron horses and merino sheep, said she considered her poultry the most profitable product of the form. It will interest our Oregon farmers' wives to know what this successful woman had to say, and

"I venture to say that there are more women poultry-rai-ers than men. The poultry industry of the United States last year amounted to $709,000,000. Many times, however, the birds are raised at a loss. To be successful one requires a large stock of good common sense. Worn-out, nervous women especially, will find it a hom. One, two or three hours out-door work each day will do wonders for them, as a relief from the nionotonous daily routine of bousework, the raising of early publics for will ter layers helps fill a demand, which is greater than can be supplied. It began in the old-fashioned way, with a room in an old-building. Have regular hours for caring for them. Order, system and judicious work in the morning hours, bring our days to a satisfactory close. I am of opinion that the mother hen will remain in fashion us an incubator for some years yet. Do not have too wet, sloppy food. Elernal vigilance should be the watchword of the ferm. The morning ration is troughs of soft feed, and whole grain in the evening. The cockerds are killed as fast as large enough. Wash the perches often will carbolic acid and kerosene. Oats, wheat and shelled corn are fed, also sea shells, gravel and chargool. Very percess often with carbotic acid and kero-sene. Oats, wheat and shelled corn are fed, also sea shells, gravel and charcoal. Very small capital, time and expense is required, and nearly all the failures come from those too proud or shiftless to attend to details,"

Under this head the Cultivator and Country Gentleman, one of the most reliable farm journals in the United States, and one of the ablest, gives the following rules for the building of siless and the making of ensilage, which can be taken as the most acceptable as well as the cheapest way for doing all the work indicated. A number of farmers in Washington and Clackamas countres have built siles and have been successful in makout a sing and neare over successful in figures, and at the Hillsboro institute by Mr. D. C. Stewart, gave much the sume instruction, but the following may be taken as the results of the best experience of enslinge makers at the East. RULES FOR ENGILAGE.

As many farmers are now preparing to build siloes, we offer the following sugestions:

1. Siloes should be made deep or high when practicable, so that the ensilage itself may exert a greater pressure on all below.

2. The bottom should be on a level with the stable floor, so as to admit of easier feed-3. It may be fitled in at the top, either by means of a carrier driven by the machine in cutting; or on an elevated bridge or causemeans of a carrier driven by the machine in cutting; or on an elevated bridge or causeway.

4. If the sile stands on a steep billside, an earth road may be made to carry up the loads of stalks to the cutter and sile.

5. The sile may be constructed of timber and plank, and while it lasts will be as good as when built of costly masonary.

6. Good walls may be made of boards or plank, tailed on the two sides of a stiff timber frame forming an air-space lined with tarred building paper, to make it air-tight and prevent freezing much.

7. If the planks are well soaked with petroleum they will hast many years. The portion next to earth may be treated with gas tar, or it may be of masonry.

8. A plank door, capable of being strongly barred, should open next to the passage toward the stable.

9. If the walls are fairly even it will make no difference in the setting of the ensilage whether the planks are set upright or horizontal.

to be more profitable than the heavier thick crop requiring some meal.

18. The best ensilings is obtained by allowing the stalks to ripen enough to let the grain glaze, and the leaves to dry on their edges. Failure results when cutting too graen.

19. From four to six inches apart in the row is a suitable distance for the stalks; smull corn and sweet corn nearer than large southern corn.

20. The amount of fedder which may be 20. The amount of fodder which may be grown on an are depends chiefly on the richness of the soil. Common or good growing northern corn, planted thicker than large southern, will yield from fifteen to twenty tons of green statks to the zere on ruch land. Lurge corn will yield rather more mataks but less in grain.

21. Dutting the fodder half an inch in length admits closer packing in the sile and prevents the making of lors 6 lives.

22. Thoroughly tramp around the edges of the silo in filling; the central portion will become solid without much training.

23. Weighting the silo packs the top layer more nearly mr hight; leaving it exposed causes several inches to rot on the top. A layer of several inches of dry straw holds a portion of the stem from the hot ensulage and tends to lesses, the rotting.

25. In feeding out, expose as little of the ensiting to the air us convenient, either by cutting down perpendicularly in successive sections; or, in smull siles with large herds, by taking off successive layers over the whole surface.

EARTH CLOSETS AGAIN.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman A correspondent of the Country Gentleman refers to writers on this subject, which is of great importance to all farmers, and says: "For more than twenty years past I have adopted a far better mode of managing the soil and liquid of the out house. The house is supported on posts about two feet high. Beneuth each hole tubs well hooped are placed, each provided with a strong bule, so that a man can handle it and lift it on a wheelbarrow with ease. Butter tubs are not too small. A strong barrel could be sawed into two equal parts for tubs. In hot weather the tubs are emptied every ten to fifteen days;

them. Before the tubs are full they are putted out from beneath the building, and one at a time is placed on a wheelbarrow and wheeled to the garden, dumped in a hole and covered with mellow soil. A few handfuls of ashes are thrown over-the surface when the tubs are hauled out to absorb all odor.

"The tubs are placed on pieces of boards so that they will shide easily. It usually takes a man about twenty minutes to empty two tubs. By employing tubs that one man can lift easily on a wheelbarrow the offensive task of shoveling is avoided. Ordinarily I see that a trench someten or twelve feet long is dug, and the contents of a tub are spread out thin and quickly covered. Our garden has been made rich by such manure. By employing tubs that offensive stench is avoided which usually exists where there is a vanit beneath the building. In hot weather the contents of a vanit become exceedingly foul in a few days. Tubs can be empited before decomposition commences. By only a little labor occasionally the premises can be kept clean and free from offensive odors.

OULTIVATION OF GURRANTS.

CULTIVATION OF CURRANTS.

As a rule, currants are not cultivated at all. They are planted in some out-of-the-way place, or along a fence where at best they can be cultivated or hord only on one stills. They are request presented that the control of the cont they can be cultivated or hoed only on one side. They are pruned spasmodically, or not at all, and soon become a tangled mass processor of trunks, not at all, and soon become a tangled mass of weeds, dead woud, pross-covered trunks, or branches with a stanted growth of shoots on top and the reeblest cluster of buts on the two-rear-old wood. At east, such a row of current busies can give only a poor crop of the smallest fruit. But after the currants wome attacks then and strips off the leaves the currants wither up and are not worth picking. Currants should have as good cultivation as corn or polatoes, and this with a coat of manure or a top-dressing of superpho-phate and intrate of soda has a wonderful effect. The pruning consists in cutting out the old branches, stripping out all the suchers (except two or three to be left to form new branches), and in the full or spring cutting back the shorts or sackers about one-half. The weaker they are the more should they be shortened back.

The best way to renovate an old row of currant-bushes is to set out new ones where you can cultivate on both sides of the row.

The best way to renovate an old row of currant-bushes is to set out new ones where you can cultivate on both sides of the row. Meantime, if yo do not wish to root out the old ones, give them a severe pruning, and either hoe or fork the ground to kill the grass and weeds, or cover the ground thick enough with manure or muich to smother the grass and weeds or, better still, sow three or four ounces of equal parts of nitrate of sodu and superplosphate to each bush. Scatter it browdcast on the land for a distance of two or three feet on each side of the row. The earler this is done in the spring the better, and if not done till the bushes are in full leaf avoid sprinking the fertilizer on the leaves, as it sometimes burns them. Recollect, however, that these fertilizers are not substitutes for hoeing or mulching. If the weeds and grass are left to grow they will take the tion's share of the intrates and phosphates. But if you hoe or smother the grass and weeds the effect of the fertilizers will be very marked.—Ancrean Agriculturist for April.

HILLS OR DRILLS FOR POTATOES.

HILLS OR DRILLS FOR POTATOES,

HILLS OR DRILLS FOR POTATOES,

That planting pointoes in check rows, three or three and one-half feet apart each way, is a wasteful practice, and in a large measure responsible for the low average yield of the crop—eighty-eight bushels or thereabouts in the state of New York—cannot be too often or too urgently impressed upon the farmer. Good yields are often obtained in that way, however. Once I grew 445 bushels of Peerless per ucre in hills three and one-half feet apart each way. But while I have repeatedly exceeded that acre rate with other and less problic kinds, by planting rapartly exceeded that acre rate with other and less problic kinds, by planting rapartly in drills, I do not expect to reach that figure again except accidentally by cheek planting. Yields approaching the capabilities of the solf are only obtainable by planting in drills not more than three feet apart, with distance between seed pieces varying from six to eighteen inches according to size of seed pieces, variety of potato, and strength of soll. I have planted extra large single eyes as close as four inches apart in the drill with good results, although heavier seeding and water planting gave a far better yield. The only objection to drill planting triged by larmers, namely, that it requires more labor than the check-row system, is not valid; for with a judicious system of planting and with the linely use of the smoothing harrow, and afterward of the cultivator, all the labor required in keeping the soll properly stirred and week dawn, on a dull-planted field, can be reduced to a numbralled move expends for that purpose under his old-fashioned system, even where he plants in hills.—American Agraculturist for April.

WHY HOGE AND CATTLE ARE LOW.

The Orange Judd Farmer says: There are too many of them for the present demands, just as we warned our readers three or four years ago that there would be, if everybody rushed into live stock raising because prices rushed into live-stock raising because prices were high then. Only think of it! Work before last Chicago alone received 150,272 higs!—enough to fill a railway treight train marly twenty miles long—and only $5,144 were shipped away, leaving 94,128 of them to be slaughtered here, or 15,68s for each day, 1698 each hour, twenty-ax each minute, or one to every four beats of the human pulse! These 150,272 hogs were all bought and paid for in each. The wonder is that prices did not sink more than 10 to 15 cents per 100 pecuds. Last week the receipts dropped to 102,377, and prices went up more than they had fallen. With hogs as with cattle, there is an extra supply; but there are too many competing bayers to allow any "trust" or "combine", and up prices. Many will now go out of stock raising, the supply will be diminished, and up prices will go again, to the benefit of those who are wiscenough to steck to the business through thick and thin.

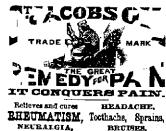

TO BUCCEED WITH ASPARAGUS.

The first and most important point 1- to select land that is naturally or artificially underdrained. Rich, moist alluvial land, costaining considerable sand, is best, if the land is well drained. A dry sandy knoll, it fich enough, will produce a fair crop, but not as good come as moister land. Provided the drainage is good, asparagus delights in an abundance of water. With good drainage and plenty of water and plant food, the character of the soil, as to whether it is sandy, or chayey, or muckey, is not essential to success. A soil that contains a little clay and a good deal of sand, with some muck, is best, but this is not half so important as thin planting and heavy manuring. You cannot make the land too rich.

"When should the plants be set out?" Either in the autumn or spring. But whether you plant in spring or fall, before planting the land must be worked till it is fine and mellow. "How shall we plant?" First, get some good, fresh two-year-old roots. Then, if you are going to plant a small bed in the garden, stretch a line not less than four feet from any other plant, and The first and most important point is to

with a hoe make holes along the line, eighteen inches or three feet apart, four inches deep and large enough to hold the plants when the roots are spread out horizontally. Do not make deep holes straight down in the ground and slick the roots in as you would a cabbage, but spread out the roots. After the roots are set out cover them with fine soil, and that is all there is to it. Then more the line three feet from the first row and repeat the planting till the bed is finished. In the field make the rows with a common cornarder, three feet apart each way, and set out a plant where the rows cross It is utile.

meeting of the Maine Pomological Society. Two round spruce poles were used, and heing used whole they did not require to be more than two inches in diameter. They were about twelve or litteen feet in length, or less for smaller trees. Strips were naited across, secured with chinching nails, the upper end being considerably narrowed so as to be easily inserted between the limbs. Not being weakened with auger holes, gives a chance for their heing lighter or smaller than otherwise.—Country Gentleman. than other wire .- Country Gentleman.

is craving or knowledge and in an expecial way the defect of human ven pathy in that craving Equalty straking and equally characteristic is the result of the same indury in the works of Shakes peare for here it is always the human element that pre-ionimates. It is the effect of drinking upon human health and character that is studied. Mrs. Stopes has collected a remarkable series of extracts from the plays and posens in illustration of her theories, and the contrast between them and Bacon is frigid, purely intellectual observations is nost marked. The dramatist sweeps the whole gammt of human experience with simulants. Between Cassio's passionne deminication of that "spirit of wine," which, if devel, and Falstaff's rapturous apostrophe to the virtues of sack, every aspect of the subject is touched upon. There is another important point. Shake-speare has much to say about side and beer drinking whereas Bacon never follows his liquor beyond the brewery. But whereas Bacon notices cider, perry and mead as well as beer and wine it is a singular fact that not one of these drinks is minioned in the plays. Shake-speare indeed has abundant mention of many potables and ways of drinking, and Mrs. Stopes offers a curious collection of his phraces and expressions in connection with them. But, as sho observes, his main interest in drinking was subjective while Bacon's main interest wie as the minion of the first, too. Mrs. Stopes has worked it out thoroughly, giving every quotation which has any bearing upon the subject. There is a secondary line of evidence growing out of the first, too. Mrs. Stopes puts it thus. 'Another important consideration beyond the psychological in regard to the discussion is that in trusting the drinking customs of different peoples in ancient time—for in stance in king Lear' 'Annony and Cleopitr' 'Hamilet', etc.—Shakespeare committs anothine and the stropes is machine to history and literature as bacon and any of the first phayes though there can be ro doubt that the other fineship and the proposa for A Summor

Baker Democrat Apr 10

The reporter insterd by had is host interview with Mr. Fred Dill, who has just returned from a week a stay at Cornucopia and that gentlem in brings with him cheering news of mining, of cations at that cump. Wr. Dill says the Oregon Go d. Mining. Company Major Smith, supermedical started up their 20-stamp mill last I raday and are pounding away on ore from the justly celebrated Red Jucket mine owned by this company and it is expected the including the kept running for menty months to come as there is an abundance, of ore awaring reduction in the mill and hundred of tons on the dump and to the mine. The ore is exceedingly rich as specimens then by Mr. Dill him elifton the bins at the ore house of the mill and now on exhibition at his place, of business in this city will fully aftest. Mr. Dill is a man of considerable mining experience and is authority for the statement that the are to be seen at the mill of the O. O. M. Co. and meating reduction is the best average of every seen in the North west and a per unal visit will convince any one of the fact.

A new mill has been contracted for by D. Howard owner of the last Chance are not and its to be reach for work by the first day of Ju. It is to be a Huntington to stamp with all the latest improvements. The Last Chance is one of the leading mines of the camp and its as the general outlook of the camp is of a most encouraging nature and Mr. Dill says the grand future of cornucopia is assured Business of all kinds is prosperous and the residents of the camp theerful and content with the bright prospects ahead. consider itself wary. The portentous advertisements and signal fiaseo of Ignatius Donnelly a huge monument of folly makes and false reison ig naturally gave the pub-lic a surfect of Bacont in experiments upon the memory and feme of Saakespeare New artheless it remains true that nobody took the pains to formulate in permanent shape a comprehens we inswer to the Elections, and it must be admitted that however fan and it must be admitted that however and tastic and unreasonable the arguments of the latter may be they have been or reter-ated that it is become an act of prudinger if not of necessary to join issue with them and set forth in convenient form all the facts and considerations which militate against and set forth in convenient form all the lacks and considerations which militate against their position.

Ihis, a tail events is how it appeared to Mrs. Stopes. She began the inquiry for her own satisfaction without any thought of publishing. She went straight to the focus of all cyidence reating, to Linglish. History therry and other was, the British Museum that is to any, and she prosecuted her researches until she had excavated from the enormous massof material available enough vital facts to establish the position, she desired to minimum. In her preface, she gives her reasons for publishing as follows. In regard to my singlest i can only say that most men would rather be tried in open court on a clear charge them to have rumors gather around them affecting the multi-tide. To allow statements to appear unanswered stems at best too like, accepting the Scotch verdict of not proven. This argues only weakness in the argument of the accusers and not innocence on the part of the accused the accusation hamits men similar long after, and may at any time be revived. But in clear case openivitied arguments fairly sifted on both sides, can result in an unanimous verdet boldly given of not guilty, whereby the accusation freed from all the consequences and reproach of the accusation and men forget it. Now so much has been written in defence of bhakespeare that it might be thought that nothing new could be advanced on the subject. But as a mitter of fact, Mrs. Stopes has succeeded in introducing novel considerations, and they are both important and interesting.

with the bright prospects ahead

Professor Whitney has the following o in regard to water and soil - 1 cour say in regard to water and soil — A coar e sand may hold 25 per cent of water a very fine sand or city will hold 50 per cent of more while a good loam may hold more than its own weight of water and peat two or three times its own weight When the upper layers of the soil dry out the water moves upward to supply that lost by expaper from and transpired by the plants. In soil composed mainly of gravel or coarse saint the spice between the particles are o large that water passes through them too rapidly and they have not the power to lift the water from below more than a few miches Green minures improve the water holding cryphities of such soils. With city or very find, said the spices between the particles may be so small that the move ment of the water is very slow from the increased fraction and will not left come up fast enough to upply the loss from the strice, and to these an application of time or improves the drainage and capillary powers by causing the city to shrink. sund may hold 25 per cent of water a very fact, Mrs. Stopes has succeeded in introducing novel considerations, and they are both important and interesting. She does not say exactly how the inquiry was suggested to her, but somehow she got the idea of comparing the writings of Shakes peace and Bacon to see how they agreed or differed in their treatment of stimulants spirits, wine, theor, eiter, etc. No one had thought of this before and therefore no data upon the question existed apart from the works themselves. The inquest had a significant result. Mrs. Stopes found that Bacon interested himself solely in what may be termed the scientific or manifacturing aspects of stimulants. He studied distill a non, vinculture, brewing, he was learned about fermentation and must and all process of production, he inquired curiously into the secrets of fining and keeping wine. But the aboved himself absolutily mufferent to the human aspects of stimulants. What the effect of drunking might be never troubled him at all. Temperance and in temperance were slike till terms to him call his works there is no how which indicates the bestowal o' a thought upon the relations of man to the intoxicants; how this fact in itself is remarkable and strongly character is the fact of the state of the state

AN ARTISTIC DERSARD. AN ARTISTIC DESSEES.

Mrs Miller began by a squarement of her mission, he is a fluent speaker of the conversational tyle, with a sympathetic womanly voice. Her suitoness are well rounded, and she showed broughout the lecture considerable quiet humor, nd a good talent for mimicry. The lecturer used obling but the plainers of language, and extained why she used the good leg in prefernce to the word 'limb.

Referring to the matter of correct wear, the centurer said that she had not worn one of the uncomhortable things-for four years, and, in consequence bed sujveyed real comfort in that time the only thing said in regard to gight being was that one abwild leave, ust enough room for breathing purposes. If a real content is the fashion now in use mong women he would be dead in four years. To be made as nature istended dresses should be if nature even intended that people should sear coloris of any kind, the garments should be tranged so that they should follow the lines of the form, and, n all possible cases, should be prope by fashioner in its turn. Commencing a the lear

'Instead of poticons I wear what I call a 'chemilette' It is made all of one piece and I will show it to you by and by bext to the 'chemilette' It is made all of one piece and I will show it to you by and by bext to the 'chemilette' I were agarment which caused me a great-deal of trouble to find an appropriate name for I hunted the deletionary on the matter, so I call it a legister it is a divided shot in makes me feel justen comfortable as a men in his trous ers I class walk the streets on a wind; day with garlest accurately The legister fixing my was closely the wind foce and blow up them any more than up men siegs. My undergardsouts are asver blown-over my head. I have not a single band about the wisst, and there is consequently mo weight hanging about the high, the weight of the electioning being equally distributed about the body. My main idea is to got rid of this we git on the hips to give freedom of movement to the legs and freedom for the movement of the entire body, freedom at the waist line for breathing, so that the whole body has a chame to develop-freely and harmoniously. Before I refire to change dresses I want you to ask me any questions that suggest themselves. Some one asked

The employes of E. J. Pierce s bootblack stand near the Gilthan house, interspersed their work similar afternoon with a discussion on the merits and senarits or "bast mem from Redis," and the reflect on the ryst of the kuman race. The debate was at its hight when G Gomez, a shiner, to add a little reality to the subject, reached under a chart for 38-culber evolver, which he flourished.

"Yow you so as of gins, dance, or I il almost he said.

Washed with Common Soap THIRD WEER. SECOND WEEK. FIRST WEEK.

Dr. A. N. Bell, Editor of the Sanitarian, New York, writes: "Pearline has gained special ascencency in my household and in many others to my knowledge, for cleansing flannels. Your own directions for its use are those we abide by: 'Wash flannels by hand in lukewarm Pearline suds; rinse thoroughly in warm water; wring dry (by pressure through clothes wringer); pull and shake well; dry in warm temperature and they will keep soft without shrinking.'

As one wash is sufficient to ruin flannels, As one wash is sufficient to ruin flannels, great care should be exercised as to the use of the many imitations which are being offered by unscrupulous grocers or peddlers.
